

THE LIQUOR LAW.

The attempt to prevent people drinking liquor in New York on Sundays is already acknowledged a failure. It is one thing to prove that liquor drinking is wrong and another thing to prevent the drinking. There are a class of people who are bound to drink Sundays and weekdays and any attempt to curtail their privileges meets with their lively opposition. Of all the laws the prohibition liquor law is the easiest evaded. There is also a class of people, and this class embraces nine tenths of the human race, who will go ten blocks out of their way in order to do something the law forbids. The law in New York has caused numbers of people to try to evade it who never before cared much about liquor. These men now put in their time studying how to get drunk and seem to succeed pretty well.

—On the 17th of June there will be issued in San Francisco a paper called the American. It will be a sixteen page weekly, and will be devoted to advocating the management of American affairs by Americans. It will also favor the repeal of the naturalization laws, and the restriction of the ballot to citizens who are able to read and write the English language. We hope the venture may meet with success, and would also like to see the American secure a large list of subscribers in Nevada. It is time that the people on this Coast as well as throughout the United States should be made aware of what foreign immigration is doing for this country. If the new paper starts out right and continues in the same spirit as its prospectus indicates, it will doubtless succeed. We hope it will.

—There should be inserted in the National Republican Platform hereafter a plank to read as follows:

Resolved. That we are in favor of the stoppage of foreign immigration to our shores and furthermore are in favor of electing none but native-born citizens to office; that we also deny the right of the ballot to citizens who cannot read or write the English language.

Then there should be strong measures brought to bear on every Senator and Congressman elected, to make them see that this resolution is carried out.—Lyon County Times.

—A Chinese cashier the other day tried to abscond for Japan with the funds of a bank, and the Government walled him up in a cell to starve to death and beheaded all his family. Here he would have been required to make good a portion of his "shortage," upon which the bank officials would have declared there had been no shortage at all, and that any newspaper which hinted at such a thing would be sued for libel. The result is that defalcations are rare in China and every-day occurrences here.

—The New York papers are not quite equal to those of Philadelphia in brotherly love, but they can set a good example to our snarling contemporaries of San Francisco. The Herald is raising a subscription to buy flags for the firemen. The World promptly sent its rival a check and favored it with an editorial in which it kindly remarked, that it was "glad to be the means of informing thousands of good citizens who would not otherwise hear of it" that the Herald was raising the fund.

—Mulhall says that during Victoria's reign of fifty years there have died of starvation in Ireland, 1,225,000 people. That is not a jewel in her diadem; that is not one of the achievements of her reign which she will desire to have embossed upon her sarcophagus in Westminster Abbey. It is a dreadful fact and is a fearful impeachment of the policy which has ruled toward Ireland.

—Two newspaper reporters were run over and killed on a Pennsylvania railroad on Saturday. When the company pays their families $10,000 apiece damages it will drive another nail into the coffin of the Interstate Commerce Act. Under the old free pass system reporters could be killed without expense.—Chronicle.
